

As far as my stay at BILS is concerned, though it is very difficult to describe in one liner, but I would certainly say that it has given me the freedom to explore the challenges and has given all means in the form of guidance to overcome those. BILS is a place which gives its students all the opportunities to spread their wings as much as they can. It gives me immense pleasure seeing our fellow mates sharing the same platform with other national law schoolites.